Hi Everyone – I just wanted to share with all of you where we're at with the pesticides section. I have a few things I plan to get out to the group this week:

- 1) Issues paper in the format that Allison and Alan used (will be somewhat based on the above attachment)
- 2) Preliminary rationale
- 3) Preliminary response to comments

I'm going to check in with Jayne and maybe Allison on the format to the response to comments to make sure that I'm on the right track. I'll use what Allison has put together so far for the responses to general comments. - Jenny

Subject: CZARA pesticides team meeting - Monday, July 28, 10-11:30AM PST/11-12:30pm Mountain

Hi Everyone,

We're scheduled to talk on Monday, July 28 from 10-11:30AM PST/11-12:30pm Mountain Time on the Oregon CZARA pesticides issues. (Dirk, in a previous email, I had said we were meeting on Tuesday, but we're actually meeting on Monday.) Non-Responsive Erik, I'll reserve a room in Seattle on Monday and let you know.

Thanks for the feedback on the compiled comments. We have now two tasks ahead of us: 1) Respond to comments; and 2) Recommend to EPA and NOAA management what we think we should recommend for program disapproval and approval.

1. Response to comments - thanks to everyone for looking over the compiled comments. I'm sure we'll have edits as we go along, but if there's nothing major, we can talk about which responses people might be willing to draft, or I will take a crack at all of them for the team to review.

2. Recommend to EPA and NOAA management what our recommendations are for program approval/disapproval - this is the main question. Seeing that this could be hard to answer, I put together a short 1-pager on three options that we could talk about on Monday. Let's spend some time talking about this. If I have the chance Monday morning, I'll send out a more detailed write-up, but this at least lays out the general considerations behind the options. There's a fundamental question on the criteria that we use to base our approval/disapproval decision, but we can again discuss more on Monday.

Thanks again for all your continued involvement! We should be wrapping this up in August, so it shouldn't take too much more of your time, but I appreciate it.

Talk to you all Monday,
Jenny
